Writing Assignment: Write a paragraph describing your 3 worst bad habits. Include details about why you started them and how you have tried or not tried to stop them.

Vocabulary Lesson – Bad Habits

PRESENTATION:

1. Teach the Target Vocabulary "Bad Habits" as a class centered activity

-There is a lot of target vocabulary (bad habits) so a good idea is to let s/s preview the lesson the night before and get a start on matching the numbers with the pictures.

- In class as you match a bad habit with its picture act it out so that s/s understand well. You could also assign a student to act it out to rotating the responsibility.

-Finally when all the bad habit are matched the teacher or one students at the front acts out a bad habit and the rest of the class yells at them "Stop sleeping in class!" "Stop smoking!" make sure you highlight [stop + gerund (ing)] form.

ANSWERS: 1,8,5,23,15 / 24,4,21,16,18 / 9,11,12,3,19 / 10,8,20,13,14 / 17,7,2,22,6

PRACTICE:

1. Have s/s in pairs or small groups using "That Bad Habit Is" and add 2 more to each box.

-First can discuss with each other why they feel a certain habit is rude/gross/mean,. then write.

-Show students the definitions of each adjective on the first line Annoying=bothers people.

ANSWERS:

Annoying -snoring, fidgeting, chatterbox Unhealthy -crack knuckles, chew pencil, be lazy, grind teeth

Irresponsible -be late, sleep in class, day dream Gross -pick nose, fart/burp, spit, chew mouth open

Mean -lying, swearing, littering Rude -fart/burp, chew mouth open, spit, swear, sleep in class

-In the second part make sure s/s understand the model sentence. Point out we are still using the "stop+ gerund" but we are also adding one more clause to the sentence with a "subject+ verb+ object".

-have one s/s say a bad habit and point at the picture and their partner makes the model sentence about the picture they point at. "Stop being late, it is irresponsible." Then switch and repeat to do all.

-Finally have students write down 6 sentences (one for each adjective) in the spaces provided.

2. Have s/s in pairs or small groups using the "How Much I Dislike It" Activity.

-Teach how we can describe the level of hate in three degrees with (don't like/hate/can't stand).

-Also show how we use the present simple verb with these sentences (not gerund form).

-have s/s discuss with each other what their opinion on certain bad habits are. What level of dislike would they use for different bad habits and why. Everyone should answer according to their personal opinions so the answer can vary.

PRODUCTION:

1. As a class or in groups of 3-5 people use "Discussion" to let students have some free practice with the target language. The teacher should keep the discussions going and either hot correct or collect errors for a error focused feedback session on the white board after the discussion.

-listen for the students to use the correct verb form when referring to bad habits in discussion.

2. Have students in small groups of 3-5 people using "Group Activities" "Act it Out".
 - First students make random lists of bad habits (trying to do each habit at least once).
 - One student stands up (keeping his list a secret) and acts out each bad habit on the list.
 - Time each student and see who can make the group guess their list the fastest. Also keep track of points for who guesses the most bad habits overall.

3. Have students in small groups of 3-5 people using "Group Activities" "Draw it Out".
 - This is the same as "Act it out" except students draw on the board or paper rather than acting.

4. Have students in small groups of 3-5 people using "Group Activities" "Create Some Fiction".
 - These 3 assignments can be done as group projects. They can be assigned as homework or group study time in class. Each assignment should be presented to the class when it is finished.

HOMEWORK:

1. students look at the picture to fill in the bad habit then add an adjective of their choosing and rewrite the sentence on the line below.

2. Students read the sentence and describe it with one adjective from the 6 learned in the lesson.
(Rude/Unhealthy/Irresponsible/Mean/Gross/Annoying)

3. Have students write in the paragraph format starting with a good topic sentence something like;
"I will describe my three worst bad habits and what I can do to stop doing them."
Make sure students use linking words between their main points (First/Second/Next/Finally)
And make sure students write at least 2 sentences to describe each main point.
